

The establishment of the World Intellectual Property Day aims at promoting the role that intellectual property plays in encouraging innovation and creativity, in developing a knowledge-based society, in creating a prosperous and sustainable environment.

Given the COVID-19 pandemic, starting from the desire to combat the spread of the new coronavirus and the need to keep the whole community safe, AGEPI will not organize any event with physical presence and encourages all users and promoters of the intellectual property system to transfer the events dedicated to the World Intellectual Property Day in the virtual environment.

In this context, we present a series of events dedicated to the World Intellectual Property Day that are just one click away from you and we invite you to attend the:
