The World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) is hosting on 23 February a Regional Webinar on Alternative Dispute Resolution for Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) Disputes.

During the event, world-class experts will discuss current legal issues in the ICT sector, including the regulations in the videogame sector. The seminar will present dispute resolution strategies, the mediation and arbitration options, and how WIPO ADR services can help resolving information and communications technology disputes.

The event is designed for lawyers and authorized attorneys, mediators and arbitrators, intellectual property counsels and business representatives from Central European and Baltic States and Mediterranean Countries wishing to familiarize themselves with international mediation and arbitration processes in the ICT context.
